'BABY' A-BOMB EXPLODED AT YUCCA FLAT

J. B. McDermott, 19, Is Fatally Injured

Two Companions Hurt When Auto Overturns

McDermott, Driver
Of Auto, Thrown
30 Feet Into Field

A nineteen-year-old youth living south of Harrisburg was fatally injured last night when the car in which he was riding hit a tree and overturned on the De'ta mine gravel road about five miles south of Route 13 in Williamson county.

He is J. B. McDermott, who died about 1 a. m. in Lightner hospital, where he was brought following the crash that occurred about 9 p. m. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold McDermott, he lived on Harrisburg Route 2.

Suffering a head injury and a patient at Lightner hospital is Steve Easley, 17-year-old son of Tom Easley, Carrier Mills Route 2. Suffering minor injuries was a third youth, Gary Gullett, 16, son of Herbert Gullett, Harrisburg Route 2.

State Policeman Guthrie Alexander and Coroner Elmer M. Gibbons both made investigations into the crash. Alexander said that the auto apparently hit the tree and turned over. Gibbons said he understood that McDermott was driving the car and that he was thrown 30 feet into a field.

Gibbons said that he would hold up the inquest into the McDermott death until the two companions are able to testify as they are the only witnesses to the accident.

The McDermott body was taken to the Gibbons funeral home. The youth had been working at Henshaw's store in Carrier Mills, the funeral home reported. His father is a Walnut Grove community farmer and a miner. Besides his parents he is survived by eight brothers and sisters, who are:

Everett McDermott of Eldorado, Mrs. Martha Lebo of Pontiac, Mich., Mrs. Ella Hogard and Miss Ardelia McDermott of Milford, Mich., Mrs. Mary Gee of Pina, Ill., Harold Wyatt McDermott, in the service stationed at Fort Lewis, Wash., and Mickey and Charlene Sue, at home.

Funeral arrangements awaited word from the brother in the service.

Girl Saves Three Sisters, Brother From Raging Fire

CHICAGO (U) — Thirteen-year-old Rosemary Pacheco was the idol of the Chicago fire department today after saving the lives of her three sisters and brother in a raging apartment house fire.

Rosemary led two sisters and a brother down a smoke-filled stairway to safety when fire broke out in a first floor flat underneath the Pacheco apartment yesterday.

Then she ran back up the steps for Theresa, her 11-month-old sister who was sleeping in a crib. Flames blocked the stairway when she tried to carry Theresa to safety.

Rosemary opened a window of the second story apartment, shouted for help and dropped Theresa into the arms of Robert Hildreath, 30, who heard her screams for help. Rosemary jumped to the pavement below.

Fire Chief Richard Brennan said after the fire, "That little girl did a wonderful thing. She showed presence of mind far beyond her years. Under no circumstances could she have done a better job."

Rosemary's parents, Samuel, a factory worker, and Constance, had left her in charge of the younger children while they went shopping.

To Open New St. Francis De Sales Catholic Church at Stonefort Sunday

Easter Sunday members of St. Francis De Sales Catholic church at Stonefort will worship in their new church building for the first time.

In November of last year the members commenced work on the new building and are eagerly looking forward to worship services Sunday, with Mass at 10 a. m.

It is a mission church, with services by Father Glennon Sims, pastor of the Equality Catholic church. Father Sims holds mass each Sunday at Stonefort, at 10 a. m. on the first, third and fifth Sundays and at 8 a. m. the second and fourth Sundays. However, Easter Sunday Mass will be at 10 a. m.

The exterior of the new building is tan brick. The interior has light green walls, white ceiling and the altar walls are duobonnet color. The altar rails are wrought iron, the altar platform will be carpeted in grey and the pews are elm grey. The concrete floor has asphalt tile covering.

Sad at Leaving Old Church
Heating units, to match the interior, are being installed.

Vigil to End Lent Observed By Catholics

VATICAN CITY (U) — More than 25,000 Roman Catholic pilgrims joined the people of the Eternal City today in solemn observance of the Holy Saturday vigil that ends the 40-day Lenten season.

Special services for today were highlighted by a special Pontifical Mass in St. Peter's Basilica. It included the blessing of the new fire, the "Exsultet" or blessing and lighting of the paschal candle. As the new candle glowed in flame, all other candles in St. Peter's were kindled.

Paschal Candle Lighted
The blessing and lighting of the Paschal Candle was followed by a hymn of praise, ending in a prayer for Pope Pius XII and all the people of God.

After the singing of the 12 prophecies of the Old Testament, the baptismal fonts which were emptied on Maundy Thursday, were filled again with holy water.

At the "gloria in excelsis deo" of the Pontifical Mass, St. Peter's huge bronze bells signaled all church bells in Rome to ring out in joy.

Ceremonies then called for playing of the organ again and the removal from the sacred images purple shrouds which had been placed on them in mourning for the death of Christ.

Lenten Fast Ended
After solemn intonation of the "Alleluia," the Lenten fast ended at noon and the "Regina Coeli" was said instead of the "Angelus."

Thousands of the faithful were expected to spend the afternoon visiting the treasured relics of the Passion on display in St. Peter's for the last time until the Holy Week of 1956.

Perhaps the most venerated of these relics is the Holy Lance. Tradition says it is the same with which the Roman legionnaire, Longinus, pierced Christ's side as he hung on the cross.

Other relics on display include some large fragments of the true cross and the silken veil of Veronica, which bears the imprint of Christ's face.

Earthquake Felt In Missouri, Illinois Areas

ST. LOUIS (U) — An earthquake of "moderate" intensity shook a wide area of eastern Missouri and southern Illinois today, but no serious damage was reported.

Police departments, newspapers and radio stations in an area of at least 100 miles were besieged by telephone calls from alarmed residents.

Dr. Ross Heinrich, seismologist at St. Louis University, said the epicenter of the quake was about 35 miles south of here, probably in a series of rock faults extending from Crystal City, Mo., to Red Bud, Ill.

The shock lasted five to 10 seconds at the epicenter, reverberating for as long as five minutes in some areas farther away. It began shortly before 7:02 a. m.

Although classified as a "moderate" tremor, the quake was the most severe felt in St. Louis proper since June 30, 1947.

An Alton, Ill., man reported he was almost thrown from bed by the quake, which upset a chest of drawers in his bedroom. A St. Louis county housewife reported that pans were knocked off the stove in her kitchen.

A few broken windows were reported in some outlying sectors, but there was no major damage reported to any police authorities.

Millions of Christians to Attend Easter Sunrise Services Sunday

By United Press
Generally fair weather is expected to prevail throughout most of the country Sunday when millions of Christians will arise before dawn to attend Easter Sunrise services.

Early forecasts showed a possibility of rain in the Pacific Northwest and northern Rockies. But elsewhere there was little risk to Easter bonnets.

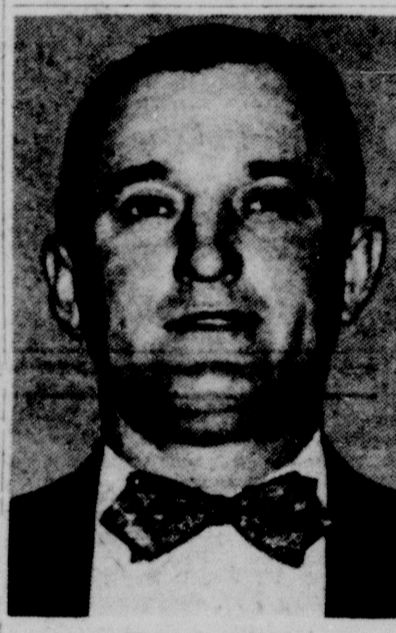

One of the biggest attendances at sunrise services will be in the Wichita Mountains near Lawton, Okla., where 80,000 persons, some from foreign countries, are expected to witness the 30th annual Easter pageant.

At Bald Knob Mountain
The three-hour service will feature a 1,600-person cast in 51 scenes depicting "Pathways to Immortality."

On Bald Knob Mountain, near Alto Pass in the Illinois Ozarks, a procession of torch bearers will signal the start of the 10th annual sunrise service on the 1,000-foot mound.

Wm. A. Smith

Wm. A. Smith Re-Elected Head Of County Board

William Alfred Smith, Republican supervisor of Galatia township, this morning was elected chairman of the Saline County Board of Supervisors for the third straight year.

Smith's election was unanimous at the call meeting which followed the township elections last Tuesday. County Clerk Don B. Garrison called the organization meeting and presided during the election of chairman. Then Smith took over.

When Garrison called for nominations, Smith was named by Herman McFarlin, Independence township Republican, and there were no more nominations. Then Smith was elected by acclamation.

The board is composed of 14 Republicans, seven Democrats and one Independent.

The board had three new faces this morning, Supervisor C. L. "Spec" Blackburn of Stonefort township, and Ivan Wilson and Roy Moore, assistant supervisors from Eldorado township. Blackburn, a Republican, defeated incumbent John Hancock, and Wilson and Moore, Democrats, replaced S. E. Pemberton, Republican, and James Burns, Democrat, who did not run.

After election of Smith, an order of business was to name new committees, and the question of buying a photo-stat machine was to be discussed.

The present board lineup: Republicans: Virgil Ferrell, William O. Douglas, Charlie Skagas, Harvey DeVar, John W. Lockwood and Vernon Smith of Harrisburg township; Raymond Vinyard of Cottage; William Alfred Smith of Galatia; Kenneth Jackson of Long Branch, Howard Patterson of Tate, R. E. Field and Charles Pritchett of Carrier Mills, Herman McFarlin of Independence and C. L. Blackburn of Stonefort.

Democrats: Aubrey Giles, Tom Maxwell, Roy Moore and Ivan Wilson of Eldorado, Claude Moore of Mountain, Bert Jones of Raleigh, Waldo Abney of Brushy. Independent: Lee Porter of Rectort.

Eldorado Operators Optimistic Warren Will Build Gasoline Plant

Operators in the Eldorado oil field today expressed optimism that W. K. Warren would go ahead with plans to erect a three million dollar gasoline plant in or near the field following a conference held yesterday among Warren, his officials and the operators at Eldorado yesterday afternoon.

Following a two-hour conference held at the Lions den in Eldorado, all of the operators present signed an option to sell Warren all of the gas he wants for the operation of his plant. Warren was given an option for 90 days to sign a 10-year contract with the operators for the gas, which is now going up in smoke.

Warren wanted the option so that he can continue with the study he is making of the gas reserves in the field. Making the survey for him is a Mr. Wannamaker, who was present at the meeting. Stelle Heads Committee

The three million dollar plant would take the natural gas and convert it into gasoline, propane and butane. About 49 men would be employed. No indication of a possible site for the plant has ever been given.

Simultaneous Baptist Revivals to Be Held April 10-24

Beginning Sunday, April 10, and running through April 24th the third division of the Nationwide Simultaneous Revival Crusade of Southern Baptists will be held. The southern third of the United States had meetings from March 6-20 and the middle belt started meetings on March 27.

Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan churches affiliated with the Illinois Baptist State association are participating, with some 550 of the 700 churches in Illinois to have meetings, according to L. H. Moore, Secretary of Evangelism. Thirty-two churches and missions in Saline association are taking part in the crusade. Because of some previous arrangements or condition, some churches are having their meetings a week or so ahead or behind the schedule, but the majority were planned to begin Sunday and continue through April 24.

Workers are going from their own churches into others, some in other towns and states, to assist in the revivals, final results of which cannot be calculated immediately. Many of the services have been preceded by cottage prayer meetings and reports coming in indicate there is widespread interest among the churches.

Believed to Be Trigger For H-Device

First of Double
Blast Scheduled;
11th Shot in Series

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (U) — A "baby" atomic bomb, believed to be the trigger for a hydrogen device, exploded at Yucca Flat today with a quick burst of light seen in four Western states.

The yellow-white flash lasted just one second when the bomb was triggered atop its 300-foot tower at 6:30 a. m. CST. A small, reddish orange fireball rose in the air and lasted about eight seconds before darkness again settled over the desert.

Observers on Angel's Peak, 55 miles from ground zero at an elevation of 8,900 feet, estimated the bomb had a yield of about 3,000 kilotons (3,000 tons of TNT), one of the smallest of the current test series.

From Angel's Peak, the flash appeared as a pinpoint of light over the proving grounds. Darkness obscured the familiar mushroom cloud, and there was no visible ground damage.

The flash was seen briefly in Phoenix, Ariz., 350 miles from the test site, and appeared as a rosy glow in Salt Lake City, a similar distance.

11th Shot in Series
In San Francisco, a brief yellow flash lit the horizon. A light fog covered Los Angeles, where the blast was seen as a hazy wink of light in the overcast sky.

It was the first shot in a scheduled atomic double-header. A larger device, which the AEC officially listed as a "limited yield" shot for calibration purposes. It was the 11th in this series and the 42nd shot at the Nevada proving grounds.

The test was a rare two-laboratory project, with the Los Alamos, N. M., nuclear lab joining with the Livermore, Calif., test organization in planning the blast. This led observers to believe the device was a possible H-bomb trigger.

No troops and only 40 Air Force and Navy planes took part in the experiment, which the AEC officially listed as a "limited yield" shot for calibration purposes. It was the 11th in this series and the 42nd shot at the Nevada proving grounds.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Old and stricken in years.—Joshua 13:1.
The body is a machine that wears out, but the more the mind is used the keener it will be at the end, and the spirit continues to grow in splendor to the end if life is lived unselfishly.

Ike Alone Holds the Key

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT
President Eisenhower stands in awesome loneliness at the summit of American life, holding in his hand the key to peace or atomic war.

No man but he can plunge the United States into war close to the Red China mainland. No man but he can order the unleashing of American atomic force.

He knows the gravity of his terrible responsibility, and he has borne its weight well. Again and again he has acted and spoken on the side of prudence and caution. He is a true guardian of the peace, and more and more the rest of the world is coming to recognize the fact.

To a man facing alone the most agonizing decisions any human on this earth could be asked to make, it is no help to have others speak out or leak information in an effort to force his hand.

Whatever may have been the intent, that was the evident effect of the recent leaked story from Admiral Carney, Chief of Naval Operations, that the Red Chinese might be ready to attack the controversial Matsu island off the China coast by mid-April.

There are military leaders, Carney included, and political groups in this country which seem to have the firm conviction that Red China is bent on major Far Eastern aggression, that war is thus inevitable and that it would go better for us if we fought it now rather than later.

Anyone is entitled to hold this view if he thinks it justified, but beyond that caution should govern. Politicians should speak with care. Military leaders of such high position as Carney probably should not push their views out to the public at all, but should advance them within the private councils of government.

For this above all must be remembered: No one but the President and possibly his Secretary of State has access to the full range of information which must bear upon so great a decision as is the making of war. No one but he, we repeat, can see the problem from the solitary height that brings the necessary perspective to it.

As Mr. Eisenhower himself has indicated through his press secretary, James Hagerty, the viewpoint of one admiral or one general "parochial" or limited, however sincerely offered, however valued as PART of the total picture.

To advance it as Carney did is presumptuous. The responsibility for the vital choice is not Carney's but the President's. It is not Senator Knowland's, or Senator McCarthy's.

The President, without mentioning names, properly rebuked the admiral for what he clearly regards as a disservice to the cause of peace.

Mr. Eisenhower's instincts are overwhelmingly for peace. Unquestionably that is a principal reason the American people place so much trust in him. He understands that when peril is at hand, as it may be now, the course of sanity is not to shout "let's go get 'em!" but to seek out with painful patience every last avenue that holds any hope of staving off the shambles of war.

Ah, That's the Danger

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Off-the-record news conferences boomerang. Justice Department holds Press Luncheon To Influence Supreme Court; Peters Security Case Worries Justice Department Politicians.

WASHINGTON.—The technique of the off-the-record propaganda news conference is being used more and more by top officials of the Eisenhower administration.

First, Admiral Carney indicates at a press dinner that an attack will be aimed at Quemoy Matsu around April 15. Then Jim Hagerty, the President's press secretary, states at another "back-ground" dinner that it "taint so." Next Admiral Carney tells a Senate committee that he never said any such thing at all.

Finally, Robert Roth of the Philadelphia Bulletin produces stenographic notes showing that Admiral Carney did say exactly what he now says he didn't say—namely, that the Reds would attack Matsu by mid-April.

It's all very confusing to the American public and makes us look like fools to our allies abroad.

What the public doesn't know, however, is that another background press meeting was held by the Justice Department not long ago. This time it was not a dinner, but a luncheon. And the man who held it was assistant Attorney General Warren E. Burger.

Mr. Burger is a lawyer — supposed to be one of the top lawyers of the U. S. A., or he wouldn't hold high office in the Justice Department.

However, the purpose of the luncheon was to do what the American Bar Association frowns on — influencing the courts through the press.

Assistant Attorney General Burger is scheduled to stand before the Supreme Court of the United States on April 18 to argue a famous security case. And, to sway public opinion in advance, he invited 12 newsmen to an off-the-record lunch. Upon arrival they were amazed to hear a bald attempt to use them to incite the public for the purpose of influencing the Supreme Court.

FAMOUS PETERS CASE

The Supreme Court case that Burger will argue is the famous one of Professor John P. Peters, top medical officer of Yale University who was fired from his part-time, non-sensitive government job in the U. S. Public Health Service after an unnamed, undercover government witness claimed that Peters had Communist affiliations. Dr. Peters was never permitted to face his accuser, and sued on the ground that this star-chamber proceeding violated his civil rights.

The case comes up for argument in the Supreme Court in about a week and already the Justice Department has one strike against it because Solicitor General Simon Sobeloff, who is supposed to handle all Supreme Court matters, refused to sign the Justice Department's brief.

So, to arouse public opinion in advance, assistant Attorney General Burger proceeded to tell newsmen how a wrong decision by the Supreme Court could wreck the government's entire security program, how the Justice Department could function efficiently only if its corps of informers remained undercover, and how disclosure of their identities would wreck the security machine.

Sooner than identify its secret witnesses, Burger hinted, the Eisenhower administration would abolish its security hearings altogether.

Burger did not explain why the reported secret witness against Dr. Peters, understood to be Louis B. Budenz, could not be named, since Budenz has occupied the limelight at many public congressional hearings.

INSPIRED BY COMMUNISTS

But he did attack anyone who criticized the Justice Department's security program as being Communist-inspired.

The 12 newsmen listened in silence. Then one of them asked whether he considered Vannevar Bush, a top American scientist and vigorous critic of the security program, as being Communist-inspired.

Another newsmen asked whether Harry Cain, an Eisenhower appointee on the Justice Department's own subversive control board, was Communist-inspired. Cain too has been a vigorous critic of the Eisenhower security program.

"I'd just like to know," replied the assistant attorney general, "who is feeding them their information."

Crude as he was, Burger ran no risk of a contempt-of-court citation. He used the technique of the background press conference where the public official who wants to get his views across remains anonymous.

Note — Newsmen present did not fall for Burger's anonymous diatribe. Only one man present, Robert K. Walsh of the Washington Star, used the substance of what he said. Walsh waited several days, then wrote a carefully balanced story. It contained no hysteria.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

Word has been passed through the Pentagon that Defense Department news is now to be censored. This is the interpretation put on Secretary of Defense Wilson's latest directive on news handling. Orders have been spread that any information embarrassing to the Eisenhower administration will be suppressed. They have been spread by word of mouth, not by writing.

ASSISTING IN REVIVALS—Rev. J. D. McCarty (left), pastor, and Maynard Cannon, music director of the McKinley Avenue Baptist church, are assisting in revivals this month, and they have announced that in all, thirteen from McKinley Avenue, including seven from the music department, are working in other churches during the simultaneous crusade by Southern Baptists. Rev. McCarty is preaching at North American Baptist church and Mr. Cannon, with assistance of his sister, Miss Norma Cannon as pianist, is leading the song services at North Willford. The others are Billy Smith, song leader at Roselore; Doyle Hedger, song leader at Ridgeway; Kenneth Upchurch, song leader at Plumville near Crab Orchard; Earl Hicks, song leader at Liberty, and the following who will speak on Monday through Saturday, April 18-23, respectively, at the McKinley Avenue Baptist mission in west Harrisburg: H. C. Hendren, Elmer Gibbons, Bob Stout, Rufus Davidson, Rev. J. C. Briggs and Rev. McCarty. Rev. H. L. Waters, another member, is doing supply preaching.

McKinley Baptist Juliet Mather BWC Holds Regular Meeting

The Juliet Mather BWC of the McKinley Avenue Baptist church met at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Ernestine Brinkley, for the regular business and missionary program Thursday evening.

A report was given by Mrs. Nettie Yarbrough on the state WMU convention recently held at Salem First Baptist where she and Mrs. Louise LaBaw attended the state BWC banquet.

The missionary theme was "Caution, Crowded Island" and was presented as reports, letters, interviews, eye witness descriptions and research from Hong Kong missionaries and China Baptist leaders. Two posters were used, one displaying a map of Hong Kong as a gateway to China, and the other a magazine article depicting the conditions in Hong Kong today.

The devotion consisted of several scriptures read by Mrs. Ruth Childress describing the contrast of heathen idols and the ever present loving Heavenly Father and the work and the power of the Holy Spirit.

Miss Laura Raley gave a historical background of Hong Kong, and discussed the conditions today in the publication and educational field. Ruth Childress told of what tourists might see; Nettie Yarbrough told of clinics and medical missionary workers; Mrs. Eunice Burroughs and Mrs. Brinkley discussed the religious and Baptist work in Hong Kong; and Mrs. Juanita Seats told of the women's work in Hong Kong.

Mrs. Brinkley closed the lesson by saying that "but for the grace of God and the willingness of Apostle Paul to follow the leadership of God, we here in America might have been as these oriental people in Hong Kong. Out of the gratitude of our hearts God for his matchless grace we ought to pray for these people in their need and give sacrificially to Christ this season of the year."

Refreshments of coffee and home made cookies were served.

Mrs. Essie Bennett, 1131 South Washington, is recovering favorably from a major operation performed last Wednesday at Paducah, Ky. Her address is Western Baptist hospital, room 339. She expects to return home by Thursday of next week.

Mrs. Hallie Butler has returned from Riverside, Ill., where she has been with her daughter, Mrs. F. E. Berg, who is recuperating from an attack of pneumonia.

Attending from Harrisburg are Mrs. C. L. Travis, recording secretary, and Mrs. C. E. Wing, secretary of Christian social relations and local church activities, who will be present Tuesday, April 12, for the executive committee meeting.

Raleigh Methodist Adult Class Meets

The Adult Sunday school class of the Raleigh Methodist church met Monday evening in the basement of the church with an attendance of 55 for a potluck supper served by the losing side of a red and blue attendance contest held by the class during the past weeks.

The program which followed the supper consisted of a song and of prayer by Mrs. Roy Hudson, a song and piano solo by the M. Y. F. girls, a Bible quiz by the class teacher and two readings, "Kate Shelley" by Mrs. Nola McClellan and "Whistling in Heaven" presented by Mrs. Maud Tate.

Also on the program was a quartet by the class members and Rev. Roy Hudson who talked on "How to Build a Sunday School."

Games and a short play "The Census Taker" presented by Mrs. Lester Upchurch and Robert Mick was enjoyed by all.

Installation Service By First Church of God— Missionary Society

The Missionary society of the First Church of God met Monday evening, April 4, at the church for the installation service and regular meeting. The meeting opened with group singing and prayer by Mrs. Gladys Aldridge.

Mrs. Doris Dale presented a lovely installation service, using various cut flowers to represent each officer, and foliage to represent the group as a whole. The bouquet, when completed, was a beautiful one, and she reminded the group that just as these flowers, when brought together, represented the handiwork of God, so each officer and member, when working effectively together for God's cause, could achieve much. The installation service was brought to a close with prayer by Mrs. Marie Wilgus.

The business session followed, presided over by the president, Miss Beulah Lievers.

Mrs. Ethel Fisher opened the worship service by reading several passages of scripture from St. John 15. Mrs. Margie Alexander gave the devotion for the evening.

Mrs. Bess Aldridge gave a wonderful Easter lesson, her subject being, "The Empty Cross and the Risen Saviour." She was assisted by Miss Marianne Alexander, Miss Pat Harris, and Miss Janet Fisher. Mrs. Anna Rhine offered prayer, especially remembering missionaries. Mrs. Aldridge ended the lesson by reading John 3:14-21, and Lonnie Hibbs gave the benediction.

Refreshments of cake, ice cream, Cokes, and coffee were served in the basement to those already mentioned and to the following: Mrs. Elsie Dudley, Mrs. Bee Holland, Mrs. Nell Hamilton, Mrs. Kathleen Rector, Mrs. Emma Hibbs, Mrs. Cressie Seldon, Mrs. Helen Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dale and Pamela Beth Dale.

Judge Trafton Dennis To Speak on Child Welfare

The American Legion Auxiliary will meet Tuesday evening for the program on child welfare. Mrs. Kenneth O'Neal will be chairman. Guest speaker for the evening will be County Judge Trafton Dennis.

A social hour will follow under the direction of Mrs. Willis T. Hawkins and Mrs. Ed Cummins.

The child welfare program of the Legion Auxiliary is one of the most important of its activities. Mrs. Paul Golish, president, states, "A square deal for every child" is the slogan of the American Legion and its auxiliary. Although the work encompassing child welfare is carried on throughout the year, the month of April is set aside to stress the activities of this program.

The auxiliary is putting special stress on objectional comic books being eliminated from children's regular reading literature, by offering to give children good clean comic and other books to read in place of such literature. "Operation Book Swap," this is called and the local unit has been working hard at this and other programs that aid all needy or delinquent children. It has contributed to the Auxiliary's State Child Welfare program for veterans' children and has given local aid to both veterans' and non-veterans' children.

The local unit and the 24th district, of which the local unit is a part, sponsors the Oglesby cottage at the ISSC School in Normal. Treats and gifts for the boys and girls there are provided on all holidays and on their birthdays.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Edith Bell Taylor, who passed away two years ago today.
Two years have passed dear one, Since you closed your eyes and went to sleep, Just as the shades of night were gathering deep.
Jesus took you by the hand and you went with him To a far distant land for you heard the angels singing, In the heavenly band.
In this distance home there is no sickness, pain or sorrow We who loved you hope to meet you In some bright tomorrow And with this hope in our hearts We dry our tears and leave grief To a God who knows and cares.

Return Youth to Soviet Parents

BERLIN (AP)—U. S. High Commission authorities announced today they returned 17-year-old Valery Lysikov, the youngest communist to seek asylum, to his Russian parents "at his own request."

The youth's father, a lieutenant colonel stationed at Schoenfeld Airfield just outside Berlin, had made a futile trip to the Western sector 15 days ago to discuss Valery's actions.

First news of Valery's return was given at a Soviet Foreign Ministry news conference in Moscow. It was confirmed later by U. S. officials in Berlin.

U. S. officials in Western Germany, who were planning Lysikov's trip to the United States, were astounded when they heard he had returned.

Torch Bearers To Start Bald Knob Service

By ROBERT L. ULLRICH
United Press Staff Correspondent
MARION, Ill. (AP) — A procession of torch bearers will move down from the summit of Bald Knob Mountain deep in the Illinois Ozarks before dawn Sunday to signal the start of the 18th annual sunrise service on the 1,000-foot promontory.

After the torch bearers form a 300-foot line, a choir of 32 high school girls will sing hymns as they march toward the top of the mountain. Bald Knob is located west of Alto Pass on Ill. 127. The annual Easter worship will begin as the first rays of the sun redden the sky. The sunrise activities have been held on the little mountain in the Shawnee National Forest ever since the inspiration came to Wayman Presley in 1937 as he walked along a ridge near Bald Knob with the Rev. William Lirley, a Methodist minister from Jonesboro. Plan 500-Foot Cross Since that time, the Rev. Lirley has taken part in most of the services just as he will this year. Presley is also the driving force behind the project to build a 500-foot cross atop the mountain. The three-million dollar structure is to be illuminated by night so that it will be visible more than 7,500 square miles.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs is helping promote the fund drive originally started by the Bald Knob Christian Foundation which also sponsors the sunrise service. After the torch bearers and the girls choir, which is from Mounds, Ill., and is directed by Mrs. C. B. Ellis, reach the summit, the service will begin at 5:30 a. m. The Rev. Lirley will deliver an invocation followed by a Scriptural reading by the Rev. R. L. Varnadon, Chicago. The Rev. Hugh Patton, Anna, will offer a prayer and the Rev. John S. Holladay, Cairo, will deliver the sermon.

Holladay is moderator of the Illinois Synod of the Presbyterian Church in the United States. The Methodist and Lutheran faiths also will be represented in the non-denominational service. Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and other officers of her organization also will participate in the service.

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — A teen-age Alton driver Friday refused to testify at a coroner's inquest into a three-car accident in which two persons were killed. Authorities indicated the accident would be reviewed by a Macon County grand jury Monday.

The coroner's inquest concerned the St. Patrick's Day accident in which Claude William Harris, Jr., 15, Decatur, and Willie Rainwater, 39, Monticello, died. Nine other persons were injured and two of them are still hospitalized.

Samuel Wells, 18, Alton, refused to testify at the inquest on the advice of his attorney. Wells was driving a car occupied by seven other teen-agers. Two teen-agers who testified at the inquest said Wells drove 117 miles from Alton to the accident scene near Argenta in 120 minutes.

Walter Mathes, Argenta, said Wells was driving about 80 miles an hour when Wells passed his car on Ill. 47-48. Mathes said he was driving 60 m.p.h.

After passing Mathes' car, Wells tried to pass the car driven by Rainwater but saw the car driven by Claude Harris Sr., approaching and tried to pull back in his own lane. Wells' car caught the rear of Rainwater's car, spinning it head-on into the Harris car.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death but made no recommendations.

Reds, French to Pull Troops from Indochina Area

SAIGON, Indochina (AP) — French and Communist Indochinese military commanders made arrangements today to pull all of their troops out of encampments north and south of the 17th Parallel. The Communists reported this morning that both sides reached an agreement on evacuation of their troops four days ago in Hanoi, capital of Red Viet Nam, with the help of the mixed Central Armistice Commission.

Official North Viet Nam sources said remaining French troops in Tonkin and Red troops in an area south of the parallel will start pulling out April 22. The operation is to be completed May 16.

Troops of both sides had been permitted to remain in these areas by stipulations in the Indochinese Armistice Agreement. The reported evacuation accord was made known as new violence flared in free Viet Nam's capital, Saigon, and threatened to shatter an uneasy truce between troops of U. S.-backed Premier Ngo Dinh Diem and the South Viet Nam anti-government front headed by two religious sects.

Unknown terrorists tossed a plastic grenade from a speeding automobile into the command post of one of the sects who opposed Diem.

SAVE TIME & MANPOWER with the Bale-O-Matic

HERE IS THE MAYER BALER THAT ADJUSTS ITSELF TO ALL FIELD AND CROP CONDITIONS

It's the progressive farmer who preserves the food value of his hay, saves valuable storage space, makes hay easier to handle, saving time and manpower by harvesting his hay the modern way with the MM Bale-O-Matic.

THE Bale-O-Matic effortlessly lifts hay from the windrow or swath, slices it into uniform layers, and ties it with two strands of steel wire while the bale is still under compression.

THE Bale-O-Matic has a pick-up mechanism which operates equally well in green or cured hay or straw, handles light, uneven, or extra heavy windrows and swaths. The new Uni-Matic Power raises and lowers pick-up mechanism "on-the-go" over ridges and ditches.

THE Bale-O-Matic can be used as stationary baler just as it is. The sturdy, quality MM construction assures you of trouble-free service and minimum maintenance.

For complete information, come in today. Let us give you the profit facts on the MM BALE-O-MATIC.

This Week at DIXON SPRINGS

University of Illinois Experiment Station

(A round-up of the week's work, activities, and observations at the University of Illinois Dixon Springs Experiment Station near Robbs in southern Illinois, prepared by the Station's staff.)

Calving Time

The calving season at Dixon Springs is under way. Oakley Robinson, cattle herdsman, says he expects about 250 calves in the next two months. This will call for daily checking of pastures for newborn calves. In his pocket, Oakley carries a black book in which he keeps birth records. In his saddle bag he carries an elastrator for castration; liquid caustic, scissors and cornsaw for dehorning; tattooer and ink for earmarking with an identifying number, and hand scales for taking birth weights.

Oakley claims that the black book is his roadmap to keep him headed in the right direction in the cattle business. In it he records the birth date, sex, dam, sire, birth weight, and tattoo number of each calf, as well as other information that is important to enlightened selection in the herd.

Planting Pines
Several varieties of pines, including Christmas tree varieties, are now being planted at the Elizabethtown Soils Experiment Field by the Dixon Springs forestry crew. These trees are being planted on plots of several fertility levels so that the effect of fertility on tree growth may be studied.

The Big Haul
About 1,000 tons of manure are being hauled and spread this week at Dixon Springs. To speed up the work, trucks are being used to haul the manure from the barns to the fields, where it is then transferred to spreaders. The biggest trouble is that there is not enough of it. Spread at the rate of five tons to the acre, manure will furnish in fertilizer elements alone about 50 pounds of nitrogen, 25 pounds of phosphate and 50 pounds of potash.

Nature and Time Help
Man can apply mineral fertilizers to soils and expect increased crop and forage yields in most cases. Given time, nature through her curious workings known as microbiological activity in the soils will provide much greater yield increases. But before nature can do her job, she must have a favorable environment in which to work. Adequate fertility is one of the necessary conditions.

George McKibben, station agronomist, states that since nature needs time it is important to fertilize completely as soon as possible. To substantiate his claim, George points to experimental fertility plots on hay production where all plots were uniformly limed, phosphated, and potashed in 1953 before seeding to alfalfa and grass. The highest yields, about a 65 per cent increase, came from those plots which had been limed, phosphated, and potashed in 1953, rather than from those plots which had only been limed, or limed and potashed in 1953. The treatment in 1953 was 1 1/2 tons of lime, 610 pounds of rock phosphate, 550 pounds of 45 per cent superphosphate, and 275 pounds of 60 per cent muriate of potash per acre, which should be adequate.

Busy Week—Tours Coming Up

During the first two weeks in April the staff at the experiment station will be busy with tours. The groups and dates are as follows:

April 1—Henderson, Kentucky, farmers.

April 2—Sears Foundation FFA sheep school.

April 2—Red Bud high school adult agriculture class.

April 4—White county farmers.

April 11—Williamson county farmers.

April 12—New Athens vocational agriculture class.

These groups will see various experimental pastures and observe the station sheep and cattle management.

SIU Country Column

Wild garlic or onion continues to be a problem on southern Illinois farms. Particularly it is obnoxious in grass pastures and in small grain crops.

Extensive experimental work in using weed killers, such as 2,4-D, for control is underway. Complete seasonal control does not seem to have been achieved yet.

For treating wild garlic in wheat, 2,4-D of the ester or amine type may be applied at the rate of one-half pound acid equivalent per acre. The best time to apply is in April after the wheat has finished stooling and before it is in the boot stage. One can expect only a 30 to 50 percent kill of wild garlic by this treatment but the remaining plants will be so distorted that the combine will miss them at harvest if the wheat is not lodged.

There is some disadvantage, too. When applied at the above time there is a likelihood that the wheat yield will be reduced slightly. The spray probably will destroy legume underseedings, too, unless the material is applied before the seedlings emerge.

A low-volatile ester formulation of 2,4-D should be used on grass pasture or on winter rye intended for spring pasture by dairy cattle. Pastures need treating at least two weeks before pasturing, usually during March. An application of two to three one-half pounds of acid equivalent per acre will be helpful in reducing the garlic and onion growth in pastures. The rate on winter rye should be one pound acid equivalent per acre.

With the young chick season at hand farmers need to keep in mind that sanitation and feeding is of prime importance in bringing a high percentage through to marketing or laying size. Of course, the grower also should remember that the rate of growth in chicks is an inherited trait. Consequently, the selection of the stock from which the hatching eggs come is high in importance. Usually the larger chicks are hatched from larger eggs. Obtain chicks that are pullets or pullets and clean and bred for high production and livability.

Sanitation requires that the brooder house be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected before chicks are put into it. Once in, it is equally important that the young chicks be protected from possible infection. Visitors to the poultry buildings and yards may carry in diseases that will bring havoc to the flock. Consequently, the poultryman needs some kind of facility for disinfecting shoes before visitors wander through the area.

When poultry diseases do occur, get an accurate diagnosis before starting treatment. Often a serious outbreak may be stopped before it makes heavy inroads on the flock. It must be remembered that each chick lost cuts down the chances of realizing a profit from the flock. A good poultry operation is not an accident. It is the result of good management.

Grass silage, legume pastures, ground corncocks and other cheap feeds are helping farmers cut costs in feeding bred sows and gilts.

A farm economist at the University of Illinois says corn price supports probably do as much to keep the price down as to keep it up.

Offensive mouth odor in your dog may be a sign of trouble.

SIU Specialist Advises Area Orchardists to Plant Vegetables

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Southern Illinois orchardists, having lost their tree fruit crops in recent freezes, still may obtain a substitute income this season from growing commercial vegetable crops, according to William T. Andrew, vegetable specialist at Southern Illinois University.

Many southern Illinois fruit growers have been growing vegetables as supplementary crops, but the need for expanding production this season seems evident in the face of reports that peaches and nearly all apples in the area have been wiped out.

Tomatoes, cucumbers, sweet corn, green peppers, green beans, and squash are vegetable crops that still may be produced in this season, Andrew says.

Since locally grown tomato plants either in hotbeds or greenhouses, usually are seeded during the latter part of February, growers contemplating commercial tomato production this season likely will need to depend on imported southern grown plants. Area greenhouses are booked nearly to capacity in growing plants for local growers. Some producers utilizing hotbeds for growing their own plants have reported losing their seedlings in the hard freeze of March 26. Andrew says that southern grown plants are cheaper, but earlier producing local plants often have proven better in this area where production is for early fresh market purposes.

Profits from commercially grown tomatoes are more likely in the area if the grower is able to hit an early market. Harvesting ought to begin during the latter part of June. Plants usually are placed in the field before the middle of April.

Producing green peppers does not require as much labor as tomatoes. Plants may be obtained in the same manner and are put into the field soon after tomatoes. They are not staked and do not require as frequent picking as tomatoes. Good quality peppers usually are profitable.

There still is time to produce cucumbers which normally have been a good profit item for commercial growers who are able to hit an early market and do not suffer too much yield and quality damage from adverse weather conditions. Cucumbers may be seeded soon under hot caps in the field. Squash have been commercially grown in the Carbon area and are a good source of early income.

Green beans give an opportunity for a quick cash crop. They occupy the field only 50 to 60 days. Seeded during the last week of April, they should be harvested by early July.

Sweet corn has been a good crop for some growers in the area. Seeding should begin by mid-April and growers may make a succession of plantings of several varieties to spread out the harvest. Corn ear worm has been an obstinate problem in growing sweet corn in the area. Andrew says, however, that by following recommended spraying schedules the infestation may be reduced.

Legume Catch Crops Give Big Pay-Off

Seeding legume catch crops in oats, wheat or other grain fields has the same effect as putting protein in livestock feeds. The legumes help to balance the "ration" for corn and other non-legume crops.

T. B. Miller, soils specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, reports on a three-year rotation of corn, oats and wheat at the Dixon Soil Experiment Field in Lee county. A legume catch crop seeded with each wheat crop there has resulted in a 28-per cent average increase of 26 bushels of corn an acre, 8 bushels of oats and 4 bushels of wheat.

At today's prices, Miller says that these increases are worth more than $50 an acre for the rotation. Cost of using the catch crop, a mixture of legumes, once in the rotation is about $5 an acre. So the pay-off has averaged about 10 to 1.

Catch crop experience has been similar at the Urbana Experiment Station, on many of the other experiment fields around the state and on the fields of many Illinois farmers.

To make the most of catch crops, Miller suggests that you supply the soil with needed amounts of lime and other minerals and then use a systematic rotation that includes a catch crop every third or fourth year.

Plan Summer Beef Program Now

Now that spring is here, it's time to start planning a summer program for calves or light yearlings that have been wintered on a high roughage ration.

G. R. Carlisle, extension livestock specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, suggests that you can finish heifers or mixed heifers and steers best in drylot. But if you plan to pasture them, give them a full feed of grain while they're on grass. You'll find that heifers tend to look "cowy" instead of like a market animal if they don't get enough grain.

You can pasture straight droves of steers with or without grain depending on how much grain and pasture you have.

If you don't feed any grain, allow an acre of good legume pasture for each steer. If you full-feed grain, you can put two to three steers on each acre of pasture.

Remember, Carlisle says, you won't have so much trouble with bloat in animals on legume pasture if you feed them some ground ear corn.

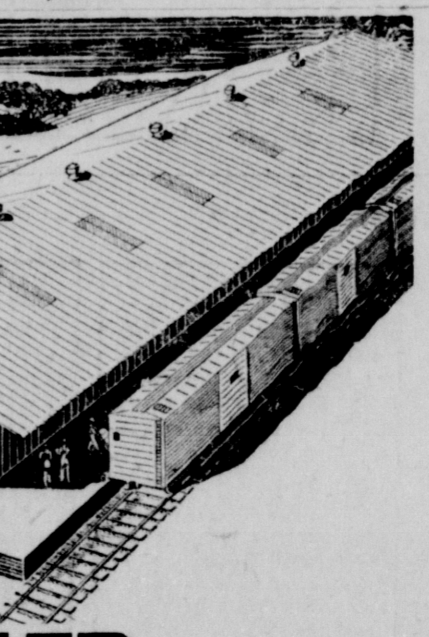

Steers getting a full feed of corn will need about 40 bushels to get them to average to high choice grade by late September or October.

If your steers are on pasture at least 90 days with no grain, you'll need 25 to 30 bushels of corn to get them to low choice grade. These steers won't be ready for market until November or December.

Cost of using the catch crop, a mixture of legumes, once in the rotation is about $5 an acre. So the pay-off has averaged about 10 to 1.

Catch crop experience has been similar at the Urbana Experiment Station, on many of the other experiment fields around the state and on the fields of many Illinois farmers.

To make the most of catch crops, Miller suggests that you supply the soil with needed amounts of lime and other minerals and then use a systematic rotation that includes a catch crop every third or fourth year.

Leland Farmer Named Champion Swine Grower

URBANA, Ill. (UP) — Oscar W. Anderson, Leland farmer, was named "champion swine grower of 1954" and given a gold medal as a feature of Illinois Swine Growers Day.

The medal was presented, at a meeting in the University of Illinois auditorium, by Samuel R. Guard, editor of Breeder's Gazette, Louisville, Ky.

Honors for swine raised by Anderson include the grand championship for individual meat hogs at the National Barrow Show in Austin, Minn., and at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago.

Farm animals should have all the water they want. They will not take more than they need unless they are being fed salt or watery feeds. Here are the amounts they'll normally want: Cows and two-year-old steers, 10 gallons a day; fattening calves and yearlings, 6 to 8 gallons; ewes, 1 to 1-2 gallons; pregnant sows, about one gallon; lactating sows, 5-12 gallons per 100 pounds of weight.

70 Pounds More Calf at 4 Months

Yes, sir, when you grow Holstein calves that weigh 70 lbs. more than the average calf at 4 months, you're really ahead. Bigger calves with larger frames make bigger, more rugged heifers when they freshen. That's what they've been doing at the Purina Research farm.

The Purina Calf Plan will help you do the same thing, too. And this plan costs you only about half the cost of raising a calf with milk and some grain.

Here's How You Do It:

Take calf off milk at only 3 days old. Feed Purina Nursing Chow gruel for 30 days. That's one 25 lb. bag. (Ask about our special Nursing Chow pail deal, too.)

Dry Calf Star-tena is kept before calf from 3rd day to 4 months old. Hay is given after two months old.

In addition to getting bigger, grower calves at 4 months, this plan is easier to use, less troublesome with scours and costs less far less.

Big Egg Production
By Local Chicken Raiser

Mrs. Herman Temple of Route 1, Harrisburg, had an outstanding egg production in this area. Mrs. Temple's hens produced 12,911 eggs in 4 1/2 months of laying. This was from 134 hens and of course she was feeding Checkerboard feed. This is a very pleasing record for our feeds and for Mrs. Temple.

Watch for this column. We'll be bringing you Checkerboard news and farm hints throughout the coming months.

The bell rings, and its message is a clarion call across the countryside. Beneath it, white lilies touched by the sunlight look upward toward a cloudless sky.

This is Easter . . . the golden day . . . the day of promise and joy. This is the time when God proffers the great gift of eternal life . . . when he shows, in the lesson of the Tomb . . . that there is no death.

There is no more joyous occasion in the Church than Easter. Against the setting of Spring, it touches the land with beauty, bringing a new upsurge of hope, thrilling the young, comforting the old. Easter is the time to dedicate your faith . . . to listen again to a wonderful promise . . . to receive again a glorious gift. Start attending Church regularly by beginning at Easter.

'Our Assurance Of Eternal Life'

I Cor. 15:3-10, 53-58

GOLDEN TEXT: "I am the resurrection, and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live: and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die." (John 11:25-26)

INTRODUCTION: This Sunday we set aside each year in remembrance of our Lord's resurrection from the tomb. Of course, we should remember this wonderful event every day in the year, and there is a sense in which every Sunday is Easter Sunday. However, it is good to have this one Sunday each year. It adds emphasis to the doctrine of the resurrection.

The resurrection does more. It gives comfort and assurance to all of us concerning eternal life. It also assures us of final victory over all the forces of evil.

THE RESURRECTION GOSPEL (I Cor. 15:3-4)

Here the Apostle Paul says: "I declare unto you the gospel . . . by which ye are saved . . . how that Christ died for our sins according to the scriptures, and that he was buried, and that he rose again the third day according to the scriptures." Paul, also states that he is declaring unto them the gospel which he had already preached and they had received. Paul had a message from God. So has every Christian today! Christian friend, are you declaring that message in your everyday life?

Christ arose from the dead. Paul tells us that if we do not believe that, our faith and hope is in vain.

II THE RESURRECTION PROOF (I Cor. 15:5-10)

After he arose from the dead Jesus was seen by Peter, by the twelve Apostles, by over 500 witnesses, by James and by many others. Do you think that this great number of people could have been fooled? Certainly not!

In addition to these, Jesus was also seen by the Apostle Paul. In fact, Paul claims Apostleship on the basis of his having seen Jesus the day Paul was on the Damascus road. He speaks of himself as one "born out of due season." He also says that he is "least of the Apostles." This latter statement was modesty on Paul's part. He is undoubtedly God's top man down through all the ages.

Paul gives a testimony that all of us could give: "By the grace of God I am what I am." Many of us would be drunkards, gamblers and ruined sinners, except for the grace of God.

III THE RESURRECTION—HOW? (I Cor. 15:53-54)

"For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal shall put on immortality." Why? So that the saying shall come to pass: "death is swallowed up in victory."

We never stand beside the grave of a loved one, who knew Christ as Saviour, but that we have a sense of victory. Actually, we sometimes have a little "righteous chuckle" to ourselves as we think how the old devil has been defeated at his last trick.

There is a plot of ground somewhere which is a little holier to you than all the other ground on earth. The body of your loved one was placed there after death. One day the trumpet will sound and there will be a mighty shout from heaven and "the heavens shall roll back as a scroll" and Jesus shall come forth again. When that happens, that plot of ground, that is holy to you now, will open up and your loved one will be caught up to meet Jesus.

"Oh! grave, where is thy victory. Oh! death, where is thy sting?"

CONCLUSION: (V. 55-58)

God has given us the victory over death and the grave through His only begotten Son, Jesus Christ. We are admonished to be always "steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord."

"Faith is the victory. Oh! glorious victory, that overcomes the world."

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
